

| | | |
|--|--|---|
| Today: Sunday, July 5, 2015 | | |
| To Do Every Day | | |
| make beds (have kids make their own beds.) | wash/dry dishes and pans and put them away | tidy the main pathways of home. Throw away clutter. |
| wash/dry/fold at least one load of laundry | plan and cook meals-- plan menus once per week | have kids put all toys away at end of day |
| get some exercise-- make sure it's something you enjoy. | wipe down surfaces (countertops, table tops, stovetops and all spills) | Swish toilet bowls |
| Tidy yourself before spouse arrives home | | |
| Add These Items Just for Today | | |
| Church and family dinner (if applicable to you) | Today, take out all those family photos and begin to come up with an organizational plan. (for me, I just have big gallon-size zip lock bags and I sort by person of primary interest in the photo because I don't scrap book and I don't like photo books.) Start organizing. | Make a plan to spend a little bit of time organizing those photos each day this week. The goal is to finish by Friday. Some of you may want to upload photos into your computer for organizing. (smart! especially if in a cloud where you can not lose them.) Sometimes I do this just by taking snapshots of the photo with my phone camera. |
| (Next week we will organize computerized photos. You can also get a jump on that if you'd like.) | | |
| Prep These Items For Tomorrow | | |
| Take tomorrow's recipe ingredients out of freezer. Put in refrigerator to thaw. | Prep for any parties you have this weekend. | Do you need ear plugs for the little ones for the fireworks display? |

| | | |
|--|--|--|
| | | |
|--|--|--|